Satisfactory. (C.N.Millard).		Shaping well so far. Quiet and industrious. (P.M.Lad.)
	1944.
Mediocre ability. His honesty has been questioned. (G.G.Drewe).		He is industrious and conscientious. On the whole his work is quite satisfactory. No case has been brought to my notice in which even the slightest suspicion was breathed against his honesty. I consulted the Dist. Magistrate with a view to ascertain the basis of his remark and then to look into any particular case which gave rise to that remark. The D.M. informs me that the remark "was of a general nature"; and I gathered from him that the remark was based purely on hearsay information itself relating to a time when Mr. Patil was not even appointed as the Second Asstt. and not on any personal knowledge. I am, therefore, unable to associate myself with that remark. (P.M.Lad).
	1945.
Satisfactory. (A.E.Shields).		Does his work with noteworthy efficiency. I and my Assistants have always found him intelligent, conscientious, and painstaking in the conduct of Sessions cases. (P.M.Lad).

5. Remarks on the following:-
(i) Preparation on facts:	Could be more thorough	Not as much as is necessary,possibly,he is overworked.
(ii) Knowledge of law:	---do----	Limited.A wider and deeper knowledge would have been desirable in view of his position as a Public Prosecutor.
(iii) Advocacy:	Not much	Medicore.Nothing striking
(iv) Address to Jury or Assessors:	No knowledge of his capacity in this respect	Satisfactory.Manages his work fairly well.
(v) Opinion work:	Very ordinary	I have no idea
(vi) Conduct of Civil matters:	I have no idea of his capacity in this respect	There has been no civil work conducted by him before me.But the Civil Judge(S.D.) before whom he is said to have conducted many suits and applications reports that he is efficient and good at civil law.
(vii) Office management etc. including execution of decrees:	Not upto much	Manages his office fairly well
(viii) Behaviour towards the public:	Nothing objectionable	Good
(ix) Character and integrity:	Nothing positive has come to my notice although in one or two cases of opinion, I am not so sure that his opinion was unbiased.	I have had no occasion to suspect his intergrity, but it appears he lacks firmness of view or opinion and a bit vacillating.
(x) Estimation in the opinion of the Bar:	I cannot say regarding this. He is a ordinary officer,but since no better is available we have to cope with him.	Fairly popular with the Bar.
